MAISON CHRISTIAN LACROIX X BRIAN KENNY

Celebrating 30 years of vibrant, playful, madcap fashion

Fashionistas – ahem – old enough to tell the tale say that Christian Lacroix singlehandedly reinvented Haute Couture in the 80s. He propelled a tiny, quirky Parisian atelier onto the covers of illustrious fashion magazines worldwide and took this famously whimsical brand into the worlds of interior design, lifestyle, women's accessories and menswear fashion collections.

To celebrate 30 years since it all started, the house has launched a vibrant celebratory collection in collaboration with New York based multimedia artist Brian Kenny. Maestro of the genre-blend, Kenny is known for transcending contradictions to make art that's joyful, subversive, alive and bright. Kenny worked closely with the House of Christian Lacroix to reinterpret the house's iconic scarf designs and patterns with trademark whimsy and gravitas. From cushions to t-shirts, headscarves and tote bags, the whole collection is imbued with a distinctive mad pop vibe. Just the thing to gift at the end of a somewhat madcap 2017.

TERRE BLANCHE

KOS PARIS partnership

Originally owned by Sean Connery, Terre Blanche's 750 acres are nestled high in the hills of Provence's Côte d'Azur. Designed to tumble through the wooded hillside like a Provençal village, each of the 115 private villas and suites provide an intimate hideaway, and Michelin-starred restaurant Le Faventia provides the best of Provençal gastronomy. Larger than the city of Monaco, this little-known Rivieran retreat is the ultimate place to get lost in its unspoiled nature and five-star luxury.

New this season, Terre Blanche Spa has revealed its partnership with Parisian cosmetics brand KOS PARIS, which takes its inspiration from organic materials and the natural world. Don't miss the Legends Treatment radiance facial, inspired by the Japanese art of Kobido. Centred among aromatic herb and flower gardens, guests can escape to this tranquil haven within a stunning Provençal 'Bastide', filled with unique architecture and contemporary art.

YACHTING PARTNERS INTERNATIONAL

The ultimate well-being retreat

Yacht charter guests looking for the ultimate well-being retreat can now experience a new standard of luxury with the exclusive new partnership between 72m superyacht AXIOMA and The Organic Pharmacy. AXIOMA's world-class yacht spa is now only using products manufactured by this premier beauty brand in all guest treatments.

This is the first yachting partnership ever launched by The Organic Pharmacy, offering guests the opportunity to enjoy a unique experience not available on any other superyacht. Treatments are administered by AXIOMA's highly professional on-board team of trained specialists.

The 72-metre AXIOMA is one of the most exciting yachts on the water, with stunning beach house style interiors by the legendary late designer Alberto Pinto, an infinity pool on the main deck, an open mezzanine in the main salon with double-height ceiling, a large Jacuzzi with a swim-up bar and a fully equipped gym.

Margo Marrone, co-founder of The Organic Pharmacy, said: "We're excited to join the prestigious AXIOMA superyacht team with our exclusive treatments and products available on board. I've always enjoyed the tranquility and inner peace that yachting offers, so to partner our luxurious treatments and powerful skincare range with this elegant superyacht just seemed so... organic!"
